

Governor's Weekly Message: Continuing Efforts to Strengthen the Economy

Dover – In his weekly message, Governor Markell offers details on how the State plans to build on previous efforts to put people back to work and strengthen the economy.

“We have to give more young people opportunities to gain exposure to the world of work, and we need more partnerships that help train both current and future workers to meet our industries’ needs,” said Governor Markell. “We will focus on fostering innovation. And we must commit to a world-class infrastructure to put Delawareans to work now and give businesses the resources they need to compete well into the future.”

Every week, the Governor's office releases a new Weekly Message in video, audio, and transcript form. The message is available on:
