

Six programs on Native-American heritage among 23 events at the museums of the state of Delaware during September 2014

-New programs added; changes made to previously announced events-

The Division of Historical and Cultural Affairs will be sponsoring 23 special events during the month of September 2014 at the museums of the state of Delaware. Six of the events—on Sept. 1, 6, 13, 20 and 27—will explore the First State's rich Native-American heritage including programs on the Lenape and Nanticoke Indian tribes. A schedule of all of the division's September special programs is listed below. Except for the lecture/tours of His Majesty's Sloop DeBraak, admission for all programs is free and open to the public. For additional information, call 302-744-5055.

Elected Chief Dennis Coker of the Lenape Indian Tribe of talks with King

Carl XVI Gustaf
of Sweden during the May 2013
ceremonies commemorating the 375th anniversary of the founding of New Sweden. Chief Coker will be speaking at the program, "The Test of Time: The Relationship Between the Lenape Indian Tribe of Delaware and the Swedish Royal Family," at The Old State House on Sept. 1, 2014.

According to Nena Todd, site supervisor for the state's downtown Dover museums, September is a time for Native-American people to return to their homelands. Traditionally, the coming of cooler weather provided a signal for native peoples to transition from their summer hunting and fishing grounds to more secure winter lodging. This tradition of seasonal travel continues in today's Native-American communities with September serving as a time when families come together and communities celebrate their heritage. One of Delaware's most well-known Native-American celebrations is the annual Nanticoke Indian Pow-Wow that will take place this year on Sept. 6 and 7.

Administered by the Division of Historical and Cultural Affairs, the six museums of the state of Delaware—New Castle Court House Museum, John Dickinson Plantation, First State Heritage Park Welcome Center and Galleries, The Old State House, The Johnson Victrola Museum and the Zwaanendael Museum—tell the story of Delaware’s contributions to the history and culture of the United States. Through displays, exhibits and special programs, the museums explore how the state’s distinctive physical environment, in combination with the people who came to live there, gave Delaware an identity that is different from any other place.
