

Governor's Weekly Message: Unleashing the Untapped Potential of Our Downtowns

NEWARK – Filling in as a guest host for the Governor's weekly message, Delaware State Housing Authority Director Anas Ben Addi discusses economic development projects underway through the state's Downtown Development District program.

“With urban areas across the country growing rapidly, we must ensure our cities are attractive places to live, work, and visit – to raise a family and to start and expand a business,” said Ben Addi. “By bringing more projects like these to Delaware, we can unleash the untapped potential of our cities at a time when more people are seeking dynamic and exciting urban environments. And that, will keep Delaware moving forward.”

Every week, the Governor's office releases a new Weekly Message in video, audio, and transcript form. The message is available on:
