

Steve Kinion named to Captive Review Power 50

Dover, DE – For the eighth year in a row, Delaware’s captive insurance director, Steve Kinion, has been named to Captive Review’s Power 50. The Power 50 represents the fifty most powerful and influential individuals in today’s global captive insurance industry. Over 3,000 insurance professionals worldwide cast their votes to select the Power 50. Since 2014, Steve has been ranked in the top ten of the Power 50 lists and for 2018 he ranks as the 9th most influential person in global captive insurance.

Insurance Commissioner Trinidad Navarro offered congratulatory words, “Steve is a captive insurance expert and professional. His continuous selection for the Power 50 reflects the strength of the Delaware captive insurance domicile.”

Steve Kinion said, “I am honored that my peers selected me to be on the Power 50 list. While this selection is an individual recognition, this acknowledgment belongs to the members of Delaware’s captive staff. Without their hard work, I would not have been selected.”

In terms of the number of captives domiciled, Delaware is the world’s fifth largest captive domicile and the nation’s third largest. It is the second largest U.S. domicile when measured by captive insurance premium. The fact that the Delaware Insurance Department is an ICCIE Trained organization reflects that its experienced captive insurance team has reviewed and licensed some the world’s most complex and innovative captive insurance transactions.
