

Revenue Announces Joint Public Call with Unemployment and the IRS

Together with the IRS and Delaware's Department of Labor Unemployment Insurance Division, the Division of Revenue has announced a COVID-19 Relief Discussion this coming Friday, May 22, 2020, at 11:30 a.m. Eastern Standard Time (EST). This free 60-minute conference will be open to the public.

Delaware's Director of Revenue Jennifer Hudson, and Director of Unemployment Insurance Division, Darryl Scott will join IRS Senior Stakeholder Liaison Yvette Brooks-Williams to discuss topics such as postponed Federal and Delaware State filing and payment deadlines, relief for citizens provided by the 2020 Coronavirus Aid, Relief and Economic Security Act, Economic Impact Payments (stimulus checks), and electronic filing options that will help you avoid refund payment delays. The Department of Labor will also address issues around filing for unemployment benefits.

Live questions will not be possible, so please submit your questions via email to the addresses listed below. Remember, please DO NOT include any personally identifiable information such as full names, SSN or bank account information. Please include the subject line DE COVID-19 Call on all communications.
